Foreword

No-one should be forced to choose between being themselves and the sport they love. Whether you're a player, spectator, volunteer or official, you should feel safe and welcome at your local sporting club.

I've seen first-hand how Pride Cup transforms grassroots clubs and unites communities with a simple but powerful message of inclusion and acceptance, and this booklet is an essential tool to help more clubs come on board.

Pride Cup won the 2015 VicHealth Award for 'Building Health Through Sport' and I am so proud to see it soar to even greater heights.

I congratulate Jason Ball and James Lolicato and all involved in the Pride Cup journey so far. I can't wait to hear more stories of the lives changed as a result of this incredible program.

Jerril Rechter
CEO VicHealth

Sport has a unique power to change hearts and minds, and Pride Cup Australia continues to leave a lasting impact in sporting clubs all over our country.

As Commissioner for Gender and Sexuality I've had the pleasure of doing the coin toss at Pride games for Australian Rules Football, soccer, netball and water polo. I've even dropped the puck for ice hockey! On every occasion I've witnessed how celebrating LGBTIQ inclusion brings communities together and has a profoundly positive impact on players, spectators and officials.

I'm incredibly proud that this movement began in Victoria – the equality state – and I look forward to more clubs spreading the message of inclusion and diversity as Pride Cup Australia continues to grow.

Ro Allen
Commissioner for Gender and Sexuality

The St Kilda Football Club is enormously proud to support Pride Cup Australia.

From humble beginnings with a regional football club bravely tackling homophobia, it has grown to inspire the now annual St Kilda Pride Game in the AFL fixture.

Sport is a wonderful vehicle for belonging and social inclusion and one that should be available to everyone. Helping clubs and leagues around Australia stage their own Pride Cups will ensure this important movement for LGBTIQ inclusion in sport continues to gather momentum. Equality is a key value at St Kilda – we were proud to be the first AFL club to march in team colours at Pride March and are proud to stand shoulder to shoulder with Pride Cup as it expands across the country.

Matt Finnis
CEO St Kilda Football Club

Message from Co-founders

We dedicate this handbook to the many communities whose Pride Cups have inspired us in ways we could never have imagined when we were kids, struggling to come to terms with who we were in the world of sport.

What started as a 50 metre rainbow line on a country footy ground has grown into a movement that transcends sport. It has become a powerful symbol of hope and acceptance, making a lasting impact far beyond football ovals and netball courts.

Pride Cup was born in Victoria and its message of equality for all has been brought to life in ways that have brought communities together and continue to inspire us.

We saw it in the stunning rainbow wings mural painted by a local artist on the side of the post office in Yarra Glen's main street.

We saw it in the stories of LGBTIQ people who had grown up feeling isolated in their home town of Hamilton, Western Victoria, returning to be greeted with rainbow messages in every shop window.

And we saw it in Traralgon, Gippsland, when the local power station lit up its cooling towers with rainbow lights providing a potent display of acceptance for anyone driving into the town.

Sporting clubs are the heart of local communities and when they show leadership it has a powerful ripple effect. Pride Cups have harnessed the media spotlight, putting LGBTIQ people and our allies on the front page of regional papers like no other event.

More towns across Australia are eager to bring the rainbow to their clubs and we're ready to help them. We founded Pride Cup Australia to offer resources and education to empower those communities.

In this handbook we've packaged the lessons, insights and personal stories from 14 Pride Cups around the country to help elevate this movement to a permanent place in our national sporting landscape.

Our vision is a world where LGBTIQ people feel included and welcome, and we believe that sport has the power to help get us there. Thank you for joining us on this journey.

James Lolicato and Jason Ball

WE ARE Pride Cup

What is Pride Cup?

Pride Cup began as a powerful gesture of mateship in a country footy club and has grown into a national movement for change that unites communities.

This celebration of diversity is transforming the sporting landscape through marquee rainbow-themed fixtures – the universal symbol of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex and queer (LGBTIQ) pride – sending a clear message that everyone is welcome in sport.

Sporting clubs are the beating heart of local communities, however research has found that discrimination and abuse has locked many LGBTIQ Australians out of the games they love.

Pride Cup bridges this gap by offering a visible display of hope and acceptance to LGBTIQ players. It provides hands-on education to help players, coaches and officials to create inclusive sporting environments.

Pride Cup strengthens clubs, brings communities together and creates ripple effects far beyond the playing field.

Pride Cup's Roots

When Jason Ball publicly came out as gay in 2012, his teammates from the Yarra Glen Football Netball Club wanted to show him they had his back. This act of true mateship became the spearhead of a national campaign to tackle homophobia and transphobia in sport.

The team from country Victoria, came up with the idea to stage a Pride Cup. They themed one of their home games around celebrating diversity and inclusion, with players wearing rainbow jumpers, and the 50 metre lines painted in rainbow colours.

It was an event that galvanised the entire community and became the inspiration for the now annual AFL Pride Game, first played between St Kilda and Sydney in 2016, which turned Melbourne's Etihad Stadium into a sea of rainbows.

Since hitting the national stage, communities across Australia have joined the movement, with Pride Cups being staged in clubs around Victoria, South Australia and Queensland.

Why Do We Need Pride Cup?

Sport brings people together, forging social bonds and providing significant mental and physical health benefits. But discrimination remains a major barrier to participation for LGBTIQ people.

Research shows that:

- 80% of Australians have experienced or witnessed homophobia in sport, including slurs such as ‘faggot’ or ‘dyke’.
- 75% believe openly gay spectators would not be safe at a sporting event,
- A staggering 87% of young gay men and 75% of young gay women remain in the closet while playing sport.

Transgender, gender diverse and intersex people face unique barriers to participation in strictly gender-segregated sporting environments. This is perpetuated by transphobia, negative stereotypes and myths about how gender relates to physical strength and sporting ability.

The effects of this kind of exclusion can be profound, contributing to the disproportionately high rates of mental health issues and suicide among LGBTIQ people.

Pride Cup’s powerful message of acceptance has been shown to reduce these feelings of isolation and bring LGBTIQ people back into sport by creating a safer, more inclusive environment.

‘I stopped playing footy because I routinely heard the words ‘faggot’ and ‘poofter’ on the field or in the stands and I was terrified of what would happen if my teammates found out I was gay. Years later, seeing players in rainbow jumpers at the Pride Cup moved me to tears. It was the first time in my life I felt like I belonged in the sporting world.’

Jason Ball
Pride Cup Founder

What's In It For My Club?

Making your club more inclusive strengthens community bonds and makes your club more welcoming to a whole new base of supporters, players and volunteers.

LGBTIQ Australians make up approximately 15% of the population and will represent a significant proportion of your local community – (and their families).

Pride Cups have the ability to bring disparate communities together to form a united bond in showing acceptance and inclusion.

Some Pride Cups have attracted crowds up to four times larger than a regular game.

Many of these were LGBTIQ people who said they felt welcome for the first time at a community sporting event.

Bigger crowds can also lead to greater potential for attracting sponsorship opportunities. The economic flow-on effect for the wider community is an increase in visitors spending money on accommodation and hospitality, and in local retail stores.

By taking a leadership role in developing these valuable relationships, your club will form stronger ties with local businesses, schools, media and local government. This can help to build a more secure financial future for your club, and create a welcoming environment for generations to come.

'Our supporters and players told us that Pride Cup was one of the best matches they'd ever been part of and it really brought the club together. We were blown away by the number of extra spectators we got on the day. To see same-sex couples holding hands on the boundary line for the first time made me so proud that our club had taken a leadership role in our league.'

David Kyle

Gippsland Pride Cup Organiser

Education

The power of the Pride Cup is in its potential to change hearts and minds.

Discrimination and hostility towards the LGBTIQ community often come from a place of ignorance, not hatred. Education can help break down barriers, smash stereotypes and make your club more welcoming.

Pride Cup Australia provides 30-minute training sessions, which are best delivered before or after training for both teams in the lead-up to your event. Using personal storytelling and real life scenarios, the education promotes understanding, and includes how to identify and challenge homophobic and transphobic language or behaviour. These training sessions will help your players, coaches and officials become champions for inclusion.

Ninety-minute sessions are offered for larger audiences or community forums.

Pride Cup players who have undergone this training report feeling more confident to intervene when overhearing homophobic language and are better equipped to make their club safer and more welcoming.

Over 250 players from 12 clubs completed evaluation forms following their Pride Cup education session. This image represents the increase in confidence they felt to intervene in homophobic behaviour.

'Hearing first-hand about the harmful impact homophobic language can have on gay players and spectators was a real wake-up call for me as a coach and a father. The education that came with Pride Cup helped our players understand that they can make a difference. We're a better club for it.'

Dean De Munk
Coach, Yarra Glen Football Netball Club

WE ARE Diversity

Where To Start?

Every Pride Cup is different and it's important that the day reflects the unique character of your club and community.

Each Pride Cup is unique, however there are some common guiding principles that will help steer your club through the process from conception to execution.

Using knowledge we've gained from Pride Cups all over Australia, we've put together some tips and ideas to help ensure your fixture is a success.

1 Get Organised

2 Set Goals

4 Find Sponsorship

Get Organised

Pride Cup is, above all, a celebration, with the capacity to educate and unite communities. But it takes a team of champions working behind the scenes to deliver results.

Start by putting together an organising committee to share the load and reduce the risk of volunteer 'burnout'. Committee members can come from anywhere but we recommend having representation from:

- Competing clubs
- Local council
- Local business owners
- Community leaders
- LGBTIQ organisations.

Roles to consider include:

- Head organiser
- Community liaison
- Merchandise manager
- Communications director
- Chair to oversee proceedings

Getting the support of your local league can really help engage the wider sporting community, so you may want to invite a league representative to join the committee. Even if they can't be directly involved, make sure you keep them updated with your progress.

 The Hamilton Pride Cup invited local LGBTIQ community members to be represented on their Pride Cup organising committee

Set out a timeline of tasks to be completed in the lead-up to match day. We recommend the planning process begins at least six months before the event.

The committee can meet once a month and then every fortnight in the final six weeks. Use email to stay in touch, and appoint someone to take minutes at every meeting, ensuring action items are delegated to named committee members and minutes are shared with the whole group, including those unable to attend meetings.

'The first year was a test for the board and the league. In year two we went in with a strong plan, we started organising earlier, we established a working committee, we involved both teams and we recruited volunteers. We felt like we were well prepared in year two and the results of the day confirmed that.'

David Cannizo

Former CEO, Southern Football Netball League

Set Goals

What do you want to achieve with your Pride Cup? Once your committee is assembled, the first task is to set clear goals.

It's important that your goals are specific, measurable, and realistic in order to boost your chances of meeting them. If your targets are clear, it will make it easier for you to measure your success in an evaluation process after the event.

Example goals include:

- Crowd size – how many spectators are you aiming for?
- Fundraising targets – how many new sponsors will be required to pay for the event? Will you need to raise money through catering or merchandise?
- Media coverage – what platforms can you leverage for publicity?
- Social impact – How many local LGBTIQ groups/individuals can you connect with? How can you ensure they feel included and welcome?

Recruit Volunteers

Volunteers are the heart and soul of Pride Cup. From directing traffic in the car park to waiting tables at the pre-match function, you'll need a team of helpers to support the organising committee.

When recruiting volunteers, it's important they understand why the event matters. Share stories to capture why making your club a more inclusive place will benefit the LGBTIQ community and the wider club culture.

Members of your local community will have a range of skills that could be useful, and are often willing to offer their time if given the opportunity.

Volunteer role examples:

- Promoting the event locally dropping fliers
- Decorating local shops
- Parking cars on game day
- Set up / pack up clubrooms
- Working on fundraising food stalls
- Rubbish pick up
- Serving food or drinks at pre-match events

The Yarra Valley Pride Cup recruited volunteers through a community information night, which was advertised on Facebook and through a letter drop to local homes and businesses. The club was able to match the skills of people who turned up to the meeting to appropriate Pride Cup tasks.

'A critical part of our success was harnessing the skills of our players and supporters to help organise our Pride Cup. We had a social media and online marketing expert who ran our jersey auction online and set up a website to sell lunch tickets and raffle tickets, and we had a signwriter who volunteered to make signs and banners. There is likely to be a pool of talent at each club that could be tapped into if you put the word out there.'

Sally Crosswell

Head organiser, Gold Coast Pride Cup

Find Sponsorship

You don't need a huge budget to host a Pride Cup but getting sponsors on board can help cover your costs or even make a profit for your club.

We've found that the unique nature of the event can open up the potential for new major and minor sponsorship opportunities.

Attracting sponsors can start with writing a letter to local businesses asking if they would like to be involved, or tapping into your existing networks of friends and professional contacts. Local residents who have a personal connection to the LGBTIQ community are often eager to show their support.

You can entice potential sponsors by offering opportunities for exposure including:

- Naming rights for the event
- Logo on the Pride Cup jumper or match ball
- Speaking slot at pre-match function
- Pull-up banners at function or as backdrop for media interviews
- Fence signage around ground
- Table for their staff and guests at function
- Logo on promotional posters/social media posts

See Appendix for an example letter to send to potential sponsors

Marketing And Promotion

Whether it's creating a 'buzz' on social media or attracting attention from TV, radio, print and online journalists, the key to attracting a crowd on the big day is promotion.

When coming up with a name for your Pride Cup think about using the name of the town, district or league that your game will be located in. If there is more than one Pride Cup in your area, brainstorm other creative ways that you can name your event.

You don't need to spend money on graphic designers or expensive branding. Once you register to host a Pride Cup via our website, we'll create a logo and produce a poster for you to use in marketing material.

We'll also create a branded Facebook event making your club and the opposition team co-administrators so you can edit and invite guests.

Social Media

These days, more people consume information through social media channels than traditional media, so Facebook, Instagram and Twitter are essential ways to promote your event.

Things to remember:

- Keep posts succinct and use photos and videos rather than just text. Look at the Pride Cup Instagram page for inspiration (@pridecup)
- Create a Pride Cup hashtag on Twitter or Instagram and invite your followers to post their pictures and stories using the hashtag.
- Post regularly. People need to see content about an event several times before it clicks in their mind to investigate further.
- Make your content exciting and dynamic so people in your community want share it.
- Be consistent across all your social media channels and always use the Pride Cup logo in your posts.
- Personal stories change hearts and minds – post stories or short videos from players, coaches or community members about why Pride Cup matters.

The Kew Pride Cup invited their premiership player Carter to share their story of coming out as transgender and their experience of inclusion in the sport they love, while the SFNL posted a video series of local LGBTIQ members of the community sharing their stories of acceptance and inclusion.

Marketing And Promotion

Traditional Media

Local media outlets are always on the hunt for new and interesting stories. In many communities, Pride Cup is the first major LGBTIQ themed event in the area and this makes it a unique selling point for local newspapers, TV and radio.

The key to attracting media attention is to provide a fresh angle and to make things as easy as possible for the journalist.

Tips for getting media coverage:

- Get in contact with your local league or council who may have a media or marketing contact to help with writing a media release.
- Write a media release to distribute to TV, radio and local papers.
- Be sure to put the most newsworthy information at the top – including personal stories of LGBTIQ people linked to your club or any high profile guests appearing at Pride Cup – and be sure to include dates, times, location and links to social media accounts.
- Offer photo opportunities such as pictures of players or supporters in rainbow colours, and provide suggestions for people the reporter can interview including club officials, players or sponsors.
- If you are supplying your own images, use high quality photos with necessary credits and captions.
- Include Pride Cup dates and training times in your media release so local media can send a photographer if they want their own pictures.

Ask your local sponsors if they want to be involved in a photoshoot to help promote the event and if you're working with a large organisation, see if they have contacts within local media.

- Give the editor plenty of notice in the lead up to their print deadline.
- Ensure your players are aware of potential media coverage at training session so you can have a unified message and a full team turnout.
- Invite local radio stations to host an outside broadcast on game day.
- Consider hiring a professional photographer to capture the event. The images can be sent to media who could not attend.

See Appendix for an example media release to send to your local media franchises.

Overwhelmingly, Pride Cup receives support from local communities. However, there may be a small minority of people who are resistant to change. This is often an opportunity to educate and change hearts and minds, however if you do need help managing any tensions that arise, contact Pride Cup Australia for support and advice.

WE ARE Community

Game Day

There is no set way to stage a Pride Cup but visibility and inclusion are guiding principles to keep in mind when planning your event.

This is a celebration of diversity, bringing together communities who have traditionally not mingled. For some LGBTIQ people it may be the first sporting event they have attended. Having visible symbols of Pride sends a strong message that everyone is welcome at your club.

This is a format that has worked for many Pride Cups:

Rainbow Visibility

- Visible symbols of inclusion such as rainbow 50m lines, jumpers, socks, laces, armbands or goal umpire flags.
- Consider flying the rainbow flag above your club for the day.
- Pride Cups tend to culminate in one centrepiece game – usually the senior team – but try to include all men's, women's and junior teams and incorporate rainbow colours into their matches.

Carnival Atmosphere

- Think of ways to engage the whole crowd, beyond watching the match.
- Encourage families to attend by offering kid-friendly attractions such as face painting, jumping castles or half-time sporting activities.

The Yarra Valley Pride Cup invited LGBTIQ sporting group Proud 2 Play to run inclusive sporting games for LGBTIQ young people and their families.

- Invite local LGBTIQ groups, health organisations and youth groups to run stalls promoting their services. Examples may include local headspace centres, local council groups and LGBTIQ support services.
- Corporate sponsors may want to run stalls and offer giveaways such as branded footballs, keyrings or water bottles.
- Approach local businesses who may want to host stalls showcasing their products or produce.
- Food trucks from the local area are a great way to attract spectators. You may want to charge them a flat fee to offset any losses from your canteen.

Game Day

Pre-match Function

- Most clubs hold an information breakfast or lunch before the game to share stories, and educate the wider community on the importance of LGBTIQ inclusion in sport.

The Queensland Pride Cup hosted a 'Chicken and Champagne' lunch prior to their game with guest speakers who shared their stories of inclusion in community sport and beyond.

- Think about your audience – do you want it to be open to the public or invite-only?
  - Guests could include representatives from other clubs in your league, LGBTIQ community members, sponsors, local business owners, school captains.
  - Could you invite a high profile figure or well known local personality to MC the function?

Opening Ceremony

- This usually takes place on the ground and is a way to engage the whole crowd in proceedings.
- Invite a local First Nations elder to give a Welcome to Country address to the community
- Include short speeches from club officials, sponsors, local celebrities or LGBTIQ members set the scene for the day and outlines Pride Cup's purpose.
- Invite a local singer to perform the national anthem as teams line up.

Trophy Presentation

- Presenting a Pride Cup trophy creates a great photo opportunity and a natural way to wrap up the day.
- Invite a high profile sports person or member of the LGBTI community to present the trophy.
- Consider also awarding a Pride medal to the best player of the day.
- Closing speeches are a great way to remind spectators of the impact the event has had and an opportunity to thank volunteers, players and sponsors.
- Some Pride Cups have hosted post-match functions after their trophy presentations, continuing the celebration with jumper auctions, live music and catering.

Merchandise

The rainbow is the universal symbol of LGBTIQ pride and themed merchandise for players and supporters is a great way to show support for the LGBTIQ community.

No matter how big or small your budget, you can add a splash of rainbow to your Pride Cup. From laces to jumpers, scarves to beanies, Pride Cup Australia offers merchandise to suit your club's needs.

We have a licensing arrangement with major suppliers of sporting jumpers. If you want to buy rainbow guernseys for your teams.

Head to the Pride Cup website to view the full range, or contact Pride Cup to learn more about rainbow guernseys.

'Our players wore rainbow socks during the game and the socks we had left over we sold straight away to spectators and family members. To see everyone kitted out in their rainbow colours was such a special moment.'

Timeline Of The Pride Cup

Use the below checklist as a guide to see if you're on the right track when hosting your Pride Cup.

Pre-Game Day

- ☐ Download the Pride Cup Handbook
- ☐ Club approval to host a pride cup
- ☐ Touch base with your league or governing body to inform them about your pride cup
- ☐ Find an opposition team
- ☐ Form an organising committee
- ☐ Have your first planning meeting with your organising committee
- ☐ Register your Cup at Pridecup.org.au to get free branding and a Facebook event
- ☐ Book in an education session via the Pride Cup website
- ☐ Order Merchandise via the Pride Cup website
- ☐ Contact local businesses and organisations to see if they will support your cup
- ☐ Look for local government grants that could be applied for
- ☐ Organise a marketing plan and contact your local paper and media outlets
- ☐ Invite guests to attend your pre-match lunch
- ☐ Invite local health and LGBTIQ organisations to come to your game
- ☐ Paint your field rainbow and set up for the game day

Post-Game Day

- ☐ Host a post game celebration to celebrate the event and community
- ☐ Evaluation & committee feedback
- ☐ Start planning for your Pride Cup for next year
- ☐ Send thankyou letters to your volunteers, sponsors and guest speakers

WE ARE Inclusion

Pride In Any Sport

Pride Cup started in a country football club but its founding principles of inclusion, acceptance and diversity are universal and can be applied to any sporting code.

There is also no 'right' way to show your club's support for the LGBTIQ community. Sporting clubs and leagues have adapted their events to suit the unique attributes of their code, ensuring sure they have the greatest impact while still sitting within the Pride Cup model.

Some examples:

Water Polo

Water Polo Australia hosted their inaugural Pride Cup in 2016. Held during Melbourne's Midsumma Festival, which celebrates arts and culture within the LGBTIQ community, the fixture was played between two Australian Water Polo League sides, the Victorian Seals and the Queensland Breakers.

The event staged multiple games, featuring both the professional clubs and affiliated grassroots clubs, on a 'Pride themed night' with both an opening and closing ceremony, celebrating the LGBTIQ community. Community stalls were set up for LGBTIQ organisations and services to promote their resources and the money raised from the event was donated to beyondblue. This event has since become an annual fixture on the water polo calendar, travelling to a different state each year.

Tennis

In 2018, Traralgon Tennis Association hosted its first Pride in Tennis Day. This event turned a fixtured competition day at the AGL Loy Yang Traralgon International into a celebration of LGBTIQ inclusion. On court features included a rainbow families activity zonem a rainbow-themed opening ceremony and an exhibition match with celebrities from the LGBTIQ community played for the namesake Pride Cup.

Lasting Impact

Equality and inclusion are not just for one day of the year. It's important to view Pride Cup as the start of the journey for your club, not the end.

Ensuring you provide an ongoing safe and welcoming environment for all players, supporters, officials and volunteers requires commitment and a clear vision about the kind of culture you want to promote all year round.

This will not only make your club more inclusive, but will create powerful bonds with your local community and improve the health, wellbeing and social connection of LGBTIQ people for generations to come.

Here are some helpful tips for strengthening clubs:

Anti-Discrimination Policies

- Take a zero tolerance stance on any discriminatory, homophobic or transphobic language, behaviour, harassment or abuse.
- Develop policies and procedures that specifically tackle discrimination against LGBTIQ people and clearly outline the club process for responding to complaints, including instigating disciplinary action if discrimination, bullying or harassment does occur.
- Contact your state human rights commission to see if they have a template document you can use.
- Ensure that all members, staff and players are informed and signed off on these policies and understand they are required to comply with them.
- Provide details about how to get more information or to escalate complaints or concerns under the policy eg. contacting the club representative or your state's equal opportunities commission.

'Since our Gippsland Pride match I had some parents contact me to share their child's story and their own difficult journey. After attending the Pride Cup they shared with me a heartfelt message that our actions are making a difference for their whole family. These parents probably don't know what a powerful and engaging moment that discussion was equally for me. I was truly humbled by their kind words and inspired about what the future could really look like.'

David Kyle

Gippsland Pride Cup organiser

Lasting Impact

---

LGBTIQ Inclusivity Training

- Help ensure all your staff and club members understand why being LGBTIQ inclusive matters by holding annual training for players and officials.
- Contact a local LGBTIQ organisation or Pride Cup Australia for more information about training in your area.
- Find out what local LGBTIQ+ services and supports there are in your area so you can share these resources with people in your club
- Host a Proud 2 Play 'come and try' session with your club to give LGBTIQ youth and rainbow families a safe place to trial your sport

Visibility

Publicly communicate your club's stance on LGBTIQ inclusion and its zero tolerance approach to discrimination with stickers, resources posters and social media posts.

- Encourage club leaders to provide strong statements of inclusion for LGBTIQ people
- Model and encourage respectful communication at all levels of your organisation
- Promote the positive stories of your club's LGBTIQ volunteers, players or supporters throughout the year eg. in newsletters

Community Engagement

- Partner with and support local LGBTIQ community organisations
- Participate in LGBTIQ community events and promote them throughout your network

Privacy & Confidentiality

- If someone 'comes out' and opens up to you about their LGBTIQ status it's important to keep this information confidential unless given explicit consent to share it with other people.
- It's great if someone feels safe to be 'out' and open at your club but that doesn't always mean they're 'out' in other parts of their life
- If you need help to support an LGBTIQ person, please see the organisations listed in the back of this guide for assistance

As a direct result of the Hamilton Pride Cup a local LGBTIQ support group was formed. The Pride Cup raised funds for the local support group through the auctioning of rainbow jumpers, and the club has continued to maintain a close working relationship with the group year on year.

Evaluation

---

The lessons learned after staging a Pride Cup can provide valuable information to help you measure the benefits gained by your club and community, and help in the planning of any future events.

The evaluation process helps you determine if you met the goals you set early in the planning stages.

When evaluating your Pride Cup here are some questions to consider:

- What proportion of the attendees identified as LGBTIQ?
- Did attendees appreciate the event?
- Will they come back to the event for another year?
- Does this event give them a heightened appreciation of their club ?
- Are there recommendations for the event in future years?
- Was there a higher figure for your bars, gates or canteen?
- Did more people attend the event than your average games?
- Were new connections created in terms of supporters, members, LGBTIQ community, volunteers, sponsors etc?

The organisers of the Yarra Valley Pride Cup worked with their local council to create an online survey tool which asked attendees to give their opinions of the event on an iPad in exchange for a rainbow wristband. This allowed the organisers to determine what percentage of the crowd identified as LGBTIQ, their feedback on the day, as well as how many people had traveled from out of the area to attend – great data to get new sponsors on board for the next year.

Ensure that you write individual thank you letters to organising committee members, volunteers, participating clubs, community partners, stallholders and sponsors. You may wish to share some of the positive outcomes from your Pride Cup evaluation results in the letters.

Definitions

Sexuality

Sexual identity refers to who you may love or like.

- Lesbian: A woman attracted to other women.
- Gay: A man attracted to other men.
- Bisexual: Attracted to more than one gender.
- Pansexual: Attracted to people regardless of their gender.
- Straight: A man attracted to women or a woman attracted to men.
- Queer: A word for any sexuality that isn't straight.

Gender Identity

Gender identity refers to how somebody may feel and who they are.

- Transgender: When your gender does not match the sex assigned to you at birth.
- Cisgender: When your gender does match the sex assigned to you at birth.
- Non-Binary: When your gender does not fit into that of the gender binary (he/him or she/hers)

Intersex variations

Someone born with natural variations in hormones, chromosomes or sexual organs that differ from conventional ideas about what it means to be female or male.

* These definitions are taken from the 'All of us' Resource

Pronouns

Pronouns are terms used by everyone.

Commonly used gendered pronouns are She/Her and He/Him. A person that identifies as Transgender or Gender Diverse may prefer gender neutral pronouns such as They/Them or their name.

Transgender and gender diverse individuals may not always be visible or open with the status of their gender identity, therefore it is very important to make sure we are referring to them by the correct gender that they identify. To do this, we can politely ask our participants about the pronouns that they use. We should not assume somebody's pronouns just based on their appearance alone.

Eg: Which Pronouns do you use?

Or when introducing ourselves we may use our pronouns to make them feel more accepted into our clubs community and start the conversation.

Eg: Hello, my name is Erika and I use she/her pronouns, what about yourself?

The most common pronouns are those referring to the binary model of gender (He/ Him/ His or She/ Her/ Hers) however some LGBTIQ individuals may feel that our most common gender pronouns don't accurately represent their gender identity or expression.

There are also flags for other sub-groups within the LGBTIQ community, including asexual, pansexual, gender-fluid, non-binary and more.

Sponsorship

An example sponsorship letter that was used in 2016 for the Yarra Valley Pride Cup and sent to local businesses within the area.

Dear Business Owner,

We would like to invite you to be a part of the Pride Cup, held by the Yarra Glen Football Netball club to celebrate and promote diversity and inclusion in local sport.

The first of its kind, the Pride Cup began in 2014 when a local football club stood tall and held a 'Pride game' to support their first gay player when he 'came out' to his team mates. This sentiment of inclusion, understanding and true mateship has caught on, and our club is stepping up to support our LGBTIQ community.

Hosting a Pride Cup presents the opportunity for Yarra Glen and surrounding clubs to support our LGBTIQ players and friends, and to show everyone in local sport just how rewarding it is to be inclusive of diversity.

Pride Cup is one of the fastest growing LGBTIQ events on the Australian calendar – a day that brings people into our town, not only to watch some sport, but to wander the local stores and to experience all that our region has to offer. Pride Cups regularly attract approximately 1000 extra visitors, with many surveyed in 2017 stating they also gave business to a café or restaurant, and / or a local winery.

In past years, Pride Cup has also helped form partnerships between local government, local business and community groups. This exciting event has been shown to attract media coverage across print, television, radio and social media.

We are looking for partners to join us in creating this brilliant day of inclusion in sport. For more information on how your business can be involved, we invite you to contact us using the details below.

Kind Regards,

Pride Cup Working Group

Media Release – 14 April 2016

PRIDE CUP TO MARK THIRD YEAR CELEBRATING DIVERSITY IN AUSTRALIA'S FAVOURITE SPORT

Diversity and inclusion needs to be present in every level of sport, and the organisers of Pride Cup are calling on Australian sporting codes, at every level to take on this challenge.

Jason Ball, co-founder of Pride Cup Australia said:

'Pride Cup has made strong progress in netball and the AFL, has inspired a national Pride Cup match between St Kilda and Sydney Swans, as well as events in other leagues but more needs to be done at every level.'

'A lack of diversity in sport has a severe impact on young Australians, and sees them self-select themselves out of the wonderful range of sports that are available in our communities. The other negative of this equation is that Australian sports end up missing out on great talent.'

The Pride Cup celebrates diversity and inclusion in sport for those who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex and queer (LGBTIQ).

This year's match sees XXX take on XXX at the XXX Recreation Reserve – with the ground featuring a rainbow 50m line, the international symbol of gay pride. The Rainbow Network supports Pride Cup by providing pre-match diversity and inclusion training to players from both teams.

A Pride Cup luncheon for community leaders and fellow coaches will further spread the message of inclusion with speakers including Victoria's Gender and Sexuality Commissioner Rowena Allen and openly gay Channel 9 News Presenter Peter Hitchener.

Commissioner Rowena Allen says that sporting clubs still present a major barrier for many people who identify as LGBTI.

'There are many young Victorians who are missing out on the benefits that sport can provide because of their sexuality or gender,' says Rowena.

'We know that the attitudes of the Victorian community have changed, and as a community we are more supportive of LGBTI people. I would encourage anyone who runs a sporting club to access some of the great materials, training and education that will help them understand some of the issues that young people face.'

Pride Cup is being held on XX/XX/XX at XXXXX.

All enquiries to come through to XXX on the below details.
