Introduction

International Tours Philosophy

We will provide our athletes with an opportunity to compete internationally against the world's best athletes. Each tour will be designed to further enhance the development of our athletes in their pursuit of a career on the ATP or WTA tour. The international opportunities will be created through a variety of schedules which meet the specific needs of the athlete.

Athletes will be rated according to their physical readiness to tour, they may be asked to participate in pre and post tour fitness assessments.

Athletes will be expected to sign and comply with the National Academy Scholarship Agreement. All athletes are expected to maintain excellent behavior and will be disciplined accordingly. Immediate discipline will be implemented by the official coaches on the tour, additional disciplinary measures will be controlled by the athletes accountable National Coach upon their return to Australia.

Athletes must at the time of the relevant selection satisfy the eligibility requirements of the following;

- TA Education Policy
- ITF Citizenship requirements;

Athletes should also be aware of, understand and comply with the -

- TA Member Protection By-Law;
- TA Code of Conduct;
- TA Anti-Doping Policy; and
- TA Cyber Policy.

The National Selectors, on advice from Tennis Australia or a Member Association may declare a player to "not be in good standing" and thus be regarded as ineligible for selection. Such reasons may vary from a breach in their NA Scholarship Agreement or failure to pay previous National Academy or tour fees. In considering the criteria for selection, the selectors may at their discretion consider "extenuating circumstances", which may include, but are not limited to, injury or personal bereavement.

Funding

National Representation

Minimal athlete contribution is required because all costs associated with representing Australia in official team competitions are covered by Tennis Australia. To be selected to represent your country is an honour, and an athlete's ability to be apart of a national team should not be influenced by financial considerations.

The following official team competitions are considered 'National Team Representation' at a junior level –

- Boy's and Girl's World Junior Teams Competition (14/u)
- Junior Davis Cup and Junior Fed Cup (16/u)

Selection on a Tennis Australia International Tour is subject to the criteria outlined in this document. All athletes selected on an official TA Tour receive funding in the form of touring coaches and/or managers (dependent upon scholarship status) as well as full tour arrangements –which are provided at no cost to the athletes (see below for details). In addition to these tour resources, financial funding is available to NA Scholarship Holders who have fulfilled the performance criteria required (see below for details).

Full Scholarship Holders;

- 100% subsidy for flights on approved schedule.
- 100% subsidy for accommodation on approved schedule.
- Professional team management – Tour Coach and/or Tour Manager,
- Official Australia Team Tracksuit and Travel Polo (if applicable),
- Coordination of all tour travel and accommodation arrangements and training base logistics.

Wildcard Scholarship Holders –

- 50% flight subsidies on TA Tours.
- Professional team management – Tour Coach and/or Tour Manager,
- Official Australia Team Tracksuit and Travel Polo (if applicable),
- Coordination of all tour travel and accommodation arrangements and training base logistics.

Please note due to the ITF and Tennis Europe IPIN system that Tennis Australia can no longer enter athletes into international events. It will be the responsibility of each athlete to complete their own entries.

Estimated Financial Cost

Tennis Australia will endeavour to make sure each tour is financially. An estimated financial cost has been allocated to each tour. The metrics used for the estimated financial cost is located in Budget Metrics. All estimated financial costs have been devised as of 20 December, 2012.

Athlete Accommodation

Athletes will be required to room with other Tennis Australia athletes who have been selected on the tour. Male and Females will always stay in separate rooms. Athletes who are full scholarship holders and request to stay with their parents will receive no funding subsidy.

Tour Management

Tennis Australia will provide exceptional management of every international tour. Management of each tour will include National Coaches and Tour Managers where possible.

Tour Criteria (Ranking)

All ranking requirements provided within the document represent a combination of the NA scholarship criteria for the specific birth year and tournament cuts in previous years. Tennis Australia is not responsible for the change in tournament cut offs if athletes are not accepted into the main draw.

Pre Tour Screenings

All athletes will be required to participate in a pre tour screening completed by their National Academy Physiotherapist two weeks prior to departure. Athletes deemed unfit to compete will be withdrawn from the tour.

Family and Friend Guidelines

Tennis Australia recognises the importance of contributions that family and friends make to the careers of athletes, and that the involvement of family and friends is a significant part of every athlete's journey as a professional. Without an effective support structure an athlete would not be able to compete successfully at an international level.

This information has been prepared to assist athletes and their families and friends to provide support for the period leading up to and including their International Tour.

Travelling on an International Tour can be an exciting but anxious experience for young athletes. They can face a number of adversities from language and travel difficulties to being able to handle consecutive losses.

Our goal is to provide a safe environment around the athletes that allows them to grow as individuals, take responsibility for their development and daily routines, confront the challenges that athletes face on the road and finally handle the adversities faced as a professional athlete.

To ensure we can provide the athletes with the experiences above we would like to make the following recommendations:

Family and Friends in Australia

Anxiety – Pre tour anxiety, especially on an athlete's first tour is normal. Explain the normality of being anxious about going away and travelling the world. However, also highlight positives on the experience at hand of playing a sport they love, getting to compete and learn different experiences.

Competition – Everyone becomes excited when the athletes are about to compete. This is natural. Yet competing away from home can be a stressful experience and in most instances younger athletes can put too many expectations on themselves. Our recommendation when you speak to your son or daughter about their matches while on tour is to focus on the following areas:

- Did you compete to the expectation of the coach?
- What was the experience like?
- What was the coaches' feedback?

It is important that there is a consistent message to the athlete. If an athlete experiences too many messages that either confuse the player or are contradictory then this will significantly impede the athlete's development and experience on tour.

Coaching – We believe we have a great coaching team who are employed by Tennis Australia and we trust they will be able to achieve the objectives set out for the tour. We feel it is important that the coach is empowered during the tour to ensure the athlete's development objectives are met.

Communication – Fostering self-sufficient behavior and a level of independence on tour is one of our biggest goals. To achieve this, we recommend having a set time (1-2 days) to speak with your son or daughter. Mornings are usually the most effective before they start their day. Being away from home is hard for both the family and the athlete but establishing a communication routine can help the athletes derive the most from the experience.

Support – This is the most important factor. The coaches on tour have an important role to deliver the tennis development experience but it is the support of family and friends that will help achieve this.

Family and Friends on Tour

At times there may be family members or friends who join a tour. To ensure the development objectives are met for the tour we hope that we can work together within the following guidelines.

Independence – Fostering self-sufficient, independent and resilient athletes is an important objective of each tour. In developing these qualities, we need to allow the athletes to make mistakes and assume responsibility for their daily tasks. This may include making sure their bag is packed correctly, having suitable water for practice or matches, keeping up to date with their school work or being punctual. If you are to join a tour for a period of time, we request that the athletes are allowed to continue to assume this responsibility and learn along the way.

Coaching – Much like in the daily training environment at home, the coach will be responsible for driving the athlete's development which will include pre and post match analysis, training sessions and physical sessions. We feel it is important that they athlete completes their pre and post match analysis with the coach and if family and friends are on tour they support the message delivered by the coach.

Accommodation/Travel – Being an Australian tennis player often means spending a lot of time away from home to compete domestically or overseas. On tour we work hard to create a 'strong' team environment. To assist with this day in and day out, it is important that players are able to room together and live with their peers, travel as a team, eat as a team, study together and support each other during the events. Family and friends are more than welcome to lodge in the same hotel and travel on the same itinerary as the team but please respect that the athletes will be required to stay with other athletes in the official team accommodation.

Support –At times during the tour the coach might request the assistance of family or friends if they are available. This support might include walking the athletes back to the hotel, observing study hall, taking the athletes to get lunch or even supervision the athletes while they complete their laundry.

In particular, family and friends should expect that athletes are likely to be learning a new set of experiences, and have less spare time, flexibility and freedom than when at home.

It should also be recognised that any additional external demands or distractions can be disruptive to an athlete or team's focus and preparation for performance.

Some examples of how family or friends might inadvertently distract athletes are:

- Expecting regular/every day contact after every match or training session;
- Giving feedback on performance that contrasts with the coach;
- Family members in conflict with coaches;
- Interrupting the athlete's routine by spending time with them pre match;
- Acting differently in their supportive capacity than at other events; or
- Promising gifts for performance outcomes upon their arrival home.

Families and friends should plan to be self sufficient and not rely on athletes or coaches for transport, accommodation or information while on tour.
